FPREF STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

CANDIDATES

Candidates must be incoming seniors who have currently enrolled and been accepted in an upper-division public relations, communications or related track at an accredited college or university within the state of Florida and slated for graduation not earlier than the following fall semester. Candidates must be full- or part-time students (minimum of six credits per semester), with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale. An unofficial transcript from your school must be submitted with your application, resumé and essay as outlined below.

APPLICATION

Please type or fill out the student scholarship application in ink (print legibly). The application must accompany your transcript, resumé and your written response to one of the five essay questions presented below. Choose the question that best suits your interests in communications. The essay must be original, typed, double-spaced and no longer than two pages, approximately 800 words. All written work must be 100% original, and the use of artificial intelligence (AI) to write this assignment will result in automatic disqualification. Choose from one of the five essay topics below:

1. What do you think is the most critical issue or trend affecting public relations/communications today and why?
2. In today's digital age, social media plays a crucial role in shaping public perception. How do you envision leveraging social media platforms for strategic communication in the field of public relations/communications, AND what ethical considerations do you think are important in this context?
3. What role do you see AI playing in the field of public relations/communications in the coming years? Describe your position on the ethics of using AI in the practice of public relations/communications.
4. Over the last ten years, how has the public relations profession changed? Where do you see the profession going in the next ten years and why?
5. What was the most valuable aspect of your public relations/communications (or related field) education, and how has this part of your education prepared you to enter today's job market?

SELECTION PROCESS

The awardees of the two $1,500 FPREF Scholarships honoring Dr. Bob Davis, APR, CPRC and Dr. Jay Rayburn, APR, CPRC, will be chosen by a Scholarship Selection Committee comprised of public relations professionals. The scholarship recipients will be notified the week of April 22, 2024.

About the Dr. Bob Davis, APR, CPRC Scholarship

Established by the FPREF in 2001, the Dr. Bob Davis, APR, CPRC Foundation Scholarship Award honors long-time Florida Public Relations Association (FPRA) member, Dr. Bob Davis, APR, CPRC.

Dr. Davis began teaching at the University of Central Florida in 1977 when the university was still known as the Florida Technological University. Dr. Davis was promoted to associate professor and awarded tenure at UCF in 1984 and to full professor in 1987. He is credited with creating the Advertising-Public Relations program that is now known as the Nicholson School of Communication.

Over his 30-year tenure, Dr. Davis influenced the careers of thousands of future communication professionals as a professor, internship coordinator for more than 3,000 students, and as the faculty advisor for the UCF student chapter of the Florida Public Relations Association, called "Quotes."

Dr. Davis served as the FPRA State president in 1988. He received FPRA's highest honor, the John W. Dillin Award in 1995 and was later named FPRA Member of the Year in 2000. Dr. Davis earned the Accredited Business Communicator credential from the International Association of Business Communicators, the Accredited in Public Relations (APR) from FPRA/Universal Accreditation Board in 1981 and the Certified Public Relations Counselor credential from FPRA in 1992. Dr. Davis passed away in 2013.

About the Dr. Jay Rayburn, APR, CPRC Scholarship

The Dr. Jay Rayburn, APR, CPRC Scholarship is a tribute to the exceptional contributions of the late Dr. Jay Rayburn, who dedicated his life to advancing the public relations field in Florida and beyond. The scholarship was established after Dr. Rayburn's passing in 2021.

Dr. Rayburn devoted his career to helping both students and professionals achieve excellence in public relations/communications. He worked as a faculty member teaching public relations and integrated marketing at the Florida State University (FSU) College of Communication and Information from 1985 until his retirement in 2020. Dr. Rayburn also held various leadership positions with the FSU Alumni Association National Board of Directors, the Florida Public Relations Association (FPRA) and the Public Relations Society of America. In 1994, Dr. Rayburn served as FPRA state president and later was the founding chair of the FPRA Counselors' Network. Among his many achievements, Dr. Rayburn was named FPRA Member of the Year in 1991 and earned FPRA's highest honor, the John W. Dillin Award in 1996. A staunch advocate for professional Accreditation and Certification, he also represented FPRA on the Universal Accreditation Board from 2002 – 2014.

AWARDS

FPREF will award scholarships based on the availability of funds. A minimum of two $1,500 scholarships will be awarded annually. The awardees also will receive a certificate in recognition of their achievement and will be honored during the Presidents' Luncheon at the 85th FPRA Annual Conference on August 5, 2024, in Tampa Bay, Fla. In addition, the honorees and/or selected essays may be published in FPRA's statewide electronic newsletter and on social media.

DEADLINE

The deadline for receipt of entries for the 2024 FPREF Student Scholarship is March 1, 2024.
